Emboldened by a passionate spirit and a desire to change the world for our “Dear Neighbor,” the Sisters of Saint Joseph founded Chestnut Hill College in 1924 not only as an institute of higher learning, but as an institute committed to nurturing the whole person.

From day one, the College has been unwavering in its devotion to this vibrant mission, one originally built and advanced by women who weren't afraid to stand up and take risks by spreading values of active, inclusive love in order to make the world a better place. In this spirit of risk-taking, Chestnut Hill College continues to innovate while remaining dedicated to providing students with an education and experience that allow them to develop personally, professionally, and spiritually.

The College continues to carry out this mission by preparing students for successful and meaningful careers. It accomplishes this through educational programs, internships, extracurricular activities, and learning experiences that transcend the classroom, fulfilling the College's aspiration to educate its students in a holistic manner that equips them to triumph over whatever challenges the future may bring.

When all this is taken into account, it's no surprise that Chestnut Hill College has received national recognition as a “College of Distinction” and been named one of the best schools in the Northeast U.S. by The Princeton Review.

“You are not here to learn how to make a living — because you must.”

You are here to learn how to live.”

*— Sister Maria Kostka Logue
President, Chestnut Hill College 1942-1954*

SUCCESS SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

“My time at CHC gave me the confidence to reach for the stars, and by doing so, I have thrived in my career.”

Living on your own,
in a beautiful setting,
surrounded by friends:
What could be better?

Alumni of Chestnut Hill College describe living on campus as an experience they'll never forget. That's because residential life is about much more than eating and sleeping: it's about learning, laughing, and sharing the best parts of college with those around you.

CLOSE TO EVERYTHING

Located in the Garden District of Philadelphia, Chestnut Hill combines the atmosphere of a small town with the convenience of a major city.

OUR CAMPUS Our charming, nationally recognized historic campus hosts speakers, comedians, concerts, plays, and more. We have something for everyone – from movie nights to Quidditch tournaments to Beat-lab, our brand-new music studio.

OUR NEIGHBORHOOD Up the road, on Germantown Avenue, lies the heart of Chestnut Hill. Our campus shuttle ferries students every day to this quaint and gorgeous neighborhood, where students can enjoy cafes and restaurants, shops and boutiques, and an art museum and a theater.

OUR CITY At one moment you're strolling through Fairmount Park, the country's largest urban park, and the next you're catching a train downtown to visit the Art Museum or watch the Eagles or Phillies play.

In 1924, a courageous and committed group of Sisters of Saint Joseph founded Mount Saint Joseph College, today known as Chestnut Hill College. The mission of the College was ambitious, yet simple – prepare students for life’s challenges by helping them grow intellectually, spiritually, emotionally, and socially.

While the College has continuously updated and modernized its curriculum to meet the ever-evolving needs of society, it has always remained faithful to carrying out its original mission. Today, students experience that mission through campus ministry, service work, and advocacy, opportunities that allow them to evolve as individuals and members of the global community.

Nearly 100 years later, our mission, imbued with the original spirit and generosity of the Sisters of Saint Joseph, continues to grow and reach new generations of students.
