Major in Spanish with Secondary Education Co-Major and Minor in Special Education

The Secondary Education Certification Preparation Program in Foreign Language (Grades K to 12) is available to Spanish Majors seeking Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) Certification. The Program integrates educational theory and practice with field experiences that include practicum and student teaching, as well as opportunities to develop teaching competence through innovative and effective approaches to the educational process with focus on students at the Secondary Level. Students interested in the Co-Major/Minor should contact the Education Office at 215.248.7129.

The PDE requires that all Secondary Education Certification Preparation Program participants have 9 credits of Special Education and 3 credits of Teaching English as a Second Language, in addition, students must meet field experience competencies before Student Teaching: EDSC-203 provides 20 hours; EDSC-201 provides 20 hours; EDSC-328 provides 75; and Student Teaching, EDSC-420, is 14 weeks in duration.

Stage I and Stage II Portfolios are completed in the following courses:

EDSC-203: Foundations of High School Education

EDSC-201: Adolescent Development and Learning

Stage IIIA Portfolio is completed in the following course:

EDSC-328: Special Methods in Foreign Language

Stage IV Portfolio is completed in the following courses:

EDSC-420: Clinical Field Experience/Student Teaching

EDSC-421: Clinical/Student Teaching Seminar

By 60 credits candidates must pass a basic skills test (PAPA or CORE) if not SAT/ACT exempt as required by PDE. An overall GPA of 3.0 or above is required for formal acceptance into the Education Department and for graduation. Students must successfully complete all required coursework, clinical field experiences, and student teaching.

Students must earn a grade of C- (1.70) or better to successfully complete the requirements for the Major unless an exception is noted. Majors may need to re-take courses with C- grades if their Career GPA is less than the Career GPA required by the PDE for Certification or if a higher grade is required to demonstrate competency as identified by the department. Special Topics courses are repeatable for credit, as is SPAN-401: Internship in Spanish. Courses are 3 credits unless indicated and may not be offered every semester.

International Studies

Minor in International Studies

The International Studies Minor enables students in any Major to become more aware of the growing interdependence of nations. Courses with a multi-cultural dimension and an international focus, as well as the study of languages, broaden horizons and prepare participants to be agents in solving problems in a positive and peaceful way. An internship with an international dimension provides realistic experience and enhances career opportunities in the United States and abroad.

The choice of courses should be interdisciplinary in nature and may be used to fulfill Major, Core, and/or Core requirements. A Faculty Advisor will assist with course choices. Courses are 3 credits unless indicated and may not be offered every semester. Although the course plan and focus should be finalized by the first semester of Junior year, it is recommended that students begin their program in their first year. Interested students should contact Mary Helen Kashuba, SSJ, Room 25B, Fournier Hall. Telephone: 215.248.7124. Email: kashubam@chc.edu.

Students must earn a grade of C- (1.70) or better to successfully complete the requirements for the minor. An Independent Study may be available with appropriate permissions; Special Topics courses are repeatable for credit. Courses are 3 credits unless indicated and may not be offered every semester.

Requirements include:

- GLST 201: Global Studies Seminar
- One foreign language course on an intermediate level or above, or a course on any level in a language ordinarily not available at Chestnut Hill College but spoken in a country where the student is studying abroad.
- Four additional courses with an international dimension focusing on a special topic or courses taken in a study-abroad program. They may include an additional foreign language course, an internship with an international dimension, either in the United States or abroad, or an interdisciplinary course with an international focus. No more than two courses may be in the same area. Examples of topics with an international dimension might include: Ecology and Environment in an International context, Multinational Corporations and International Business, Children and the Family in an International context, Multiculturalism in the Arts, Experiences in an International Program abroad, or other similar topics chosen in consultation with the faculty advisor.

All courses must be approved by the International Studies advisor.
